4th & 5th December 2013

Freedom hall – Juba

Theme :

"Investment for Economic Diversification and Prosperity"

2013

The Republic of South Sudan in collaboration with development partners is organizing the South Sudan Investment Conference (SSIC) on 4th and 5th December 2013 in Juba.

The objective of the conference is to showcase to local, regional and international investors the business and investment opportunities in South Sudan with the aim of crafting a clear roadmap for its diversification; emphasizing on priority areas such as:

- Agriculture: livestock, fisheries
- Mining and petroleum: pipeline, refineries, petro chemical complex.
- Infrastructure: roads, transport, electricity, telecommunications.

The conference will provide a platform for political leaders and decision makers of South Sudan to interact with private sector and potential investors to spearhead the transformation process through an open dialogue on South Sudan opportunities.

The conference is expected to generate a pipeline of real investment projects which will later become anchor investment priority area. Also expected to pave the way for intense investment promotional activities in 2014 as a follow-up to the South Sudan Investment Conference 2013.

Conference core element

The investment conference offers over two dozen high quality sessions, each focusing on business opportunities or investment projects, including keynote addresses by line ministers in charge of five high impact economic sectors namely agriculture, infrastructure, petroleum and mining, hospitality and tourism.
